

Campus Ministry Sundays

Throughout the year, congregations in our synod celebrate Campus Ministry Sundays to remember the vital work of campus ministry in serving and forming young adults. The ELCA supports campus ministry sites at over 180 colleges and universities, including The Vine NYC Campus Ministry Network right here in the Metro New York Synod.

About The Vine NYC

The Vine NYC is a network of big hearted, open minded campus ministries in New York City. Through The Vine, students experience the unconditional love of God in community and are empowered to explore, claim, and live Christian faith. Our students gather weekly for meals, Bible study, and faith conversation in our local branches, and come together as a citywide community throughout the year for retreats, service and justice work, learning trips, and other programs. The Vine network currently serves college and graduate students from 10 local institutions,

The Vine NYC is a ministry of Lutheran Ministries in Higher Education (LMHE) in partnership with local Lutheran, Presbyterian, and United Methodist congregations. Learn more at thevinenyc.org.

Support Campus Ministry

Your support is what makes it possible for our ministries to touch the lives of students every day. Please consider making a gift that will nurture the faith of the students in our area today and help cultivate faithful leaders for our Church and world. To give online, visit thevinenyc.org/donate, or scan the QR code to the right.

Refer a Student

Do you know a student who could benefit from campus ministry? Wherever they go to school, you can refer them by visiting lumin-networkreferral.org.

Campus Ministry Sundays

Throughout the year, congregations in our synod celebrate Campus Ministry Sundays to remember the vital work of campus ministry in serving and forming young adults. The ELCA supports campus ministry sites at over 180 colleges and universities, including The Vine NYC Campus Ministry Network right here in the Metro New York Synod.

About The Vine NYC

The Vine NYC is a network of big hearted, open minded campus ministries in New York City. Through The Vine, students experience the unconditional love of God in community and are empowered to explore, claim, and live Christian faith. Our students gather weekly for meals, Bible study, and faith conversation in our local branches, and come together as a citywide community throughout the year for retreats, service and justice work, learning trips, and other programs. The Vine network currently serves college and graduate students from 10 local institutions,

The Vine NYC is a ministry of Lutheran Ministries in Higher Education (LMHE) in partnership with local Lutheran, Presbyterian, and United Methodist congregations. Learn more at thevinenyc.org.

Support Campus Ministry

Your support is what makes it possible for our ministries to touch the lives of students every day. Please consider making a gift that will nurture the faith of the students in our area today and help cultivate faithful leaders for our Church and world. To give online, visit thevinenyc.org/donate, or scan the QR code to the right.

Refer a Student

Do you know a student who could benefit from campus ministry? Wherever they go to school, you can refer them by visiting lumin-networkreferral.org.

Why Campus Ministry Matters: Hear From Our Students

“Campus ministry is a home for me --a place of comfort, especially during stressful times. As a college student far from home, there is nothing more important to me than that.” – Michelle G., Columbia U.

“Once I started college, I stopped going to church, not because I wanted to but just because I didn’t really know where to go. Since I found campus ministry, I’ve made so many friends and really found a community that I love and loves me. There is no need to change or try to be more than I am.” – Christian P., NYU

Why Campus Ministry Matters: Hear From Our Students

“Campus ministry is a home for me --a place of comfort, especially during stressful times. As a college student far from home, there is nothing more important to me than that.” – Michelle G., Columbia U.

“Once I started college, I stopped going to church, not because I wanted to but just because I didn’t really know where to go. Since I found campus ministry, I’ve made so many friends and really found a community that I love and loves me. There is no need to change or try to be more than I am.” – Christian P., NYU

“Campus ministry created a space to put my progressive social attitudes and my faith in conversation with one another. Campus ministry has been my go-to community to remind me that I am welcome and there is a place for me in New York.”
- Anna M., NYU

“Campus ministry created a space to put my progressive social attitudes and my faith in conversation with one another. Campus ministry has been my go-to community to remind me that I am welcome and there is a place for me in New York.”
- Anna M., NYU

“Campus ministry has given me a community to hold me in my vocational discernment and struggling with God on a weekly basis. While we are physically nurtured by the food provided, we are also spiritually nurtured by the loving community that holds our joys and concerns in confidence.” – Eric A., Union Theological Seminary

“Campus ministry has given me a community to hold me in my vocational discernment and struggling with God on a weekly basis. While we are physically nurtured by the food provided, we are also spiritually nurtured by the loving community that holds our joys and concerns in confidence.” – Eric A., Union Theological Seminary

Learn more about The Vine at thevinenyc.org.

Learn more about The Vine at thevinenyc.org.