

Campus Ministry in New York City

"Campus ministry is a home for me --a place of comfort, especially during stressful times. As a college student far from home, there is nothing more important to me than that." – Michelle, Columbia U.

The Vine NYC campus ministry network unites students from across the city in welcoming Christian communities where they encounter the love of God, grow in Christian faith, serve others and discern vocation. The Vine's campus ministry branches in Queens, Morningside Heights and lower Manhattan gather students from more than 10 colleges and universities for worship, study, fellowship and service and justice work. The Vine NYC is a ministry of Lutheran Ministries in Higher Education (LMHE) in partnership with local Lutheran and ecumenical congregations and the Metro New York Synod.

Learn more at thevinenyc.org.

"Once I started college, I stopped going to church, not because I wanted to but just because I didn't really know where to go. Since I found campus ministry, I've made so many friends and really found a community that I love and loves me. There is no need to change or try to be more than I am." – Christian, NYU

Refer a Student

Do you know a student who could benefit from campus ministry? You can refer him or her by visiting lumin-networkreferral.org.

Support Campus Ministry

We invite you to consider making an investment in the faith lives of the students and young adults, whether through regular prayer, taking up a special offering, or becoming a regular giver to campus ministry. LMHE relies on generous gifts from individuals and congregations for over 50% of its operating budget each year and each act of giving is deeply felt and profoundly appreciated. Give online at thevinenyc.org/support or by scanning the QR code.

Lutheran Ministries in Higher Education

Engaging Faith ✦ Expanding Minds ✦ Pursuing Justice ✦ Creating Community

Campus Ministry in New York City

"Campus ministry is a home for me --a place of comfort, especially during stressful times. As a college student far from home, there is nothing more important to me than that." – Michelle, Columbia U.

The Vine NYC campus ministry network unites students from across the city in welcoming Christian communities where they encounter the love of God, grow in Christian faith, serve others and discern vocation. The Vine's campus ministry branches in Queens, Morningside Heights and lower Manhattan gather students from more than 10 colleges and universities for worship, study, fellowship and service and justice work. The Vine NYC is a ministry of Lutheran Ministries in Higher Education (LMHE) in partnership with local Lutheran and ecumenical congregations and the Metro New York Synod.

Learn more at thevinenyc.org.

"Once I started college, I stopped going to church, not because I wanted to but just because I didn't really know where to go. Since I found campus ministry, I've made so many friends and really found a community that I love and loves me. There is no need to change or try to be more than I am." – Christian, NYU

Refer a Student

Do you know a student who could benefit from campus ministry? You can refer him or her by visiting lumin-networkreferral.org.

Support Campus Ministry

We invite you to consider making an investment in the faith lives of the students and young adults, whether through regular prayer, taking up a special offering, or becoming a regular giver to campus ministry. LMHE relies on generous gifts from individuals and congregations for over 50% of its operating budget each year and each act of giving is deeply felt and profoundly appreciated. Give online at thevinenyc.org/support or by scanning the QR code.

Lutheran Ministries in Higher Education

Engaging Faith ✦ Expanding Minds ✦ Pursuing Justice ✦ Creating Community